Emily Ogle

Kokomo High School Class of 2018 graduate Emily Ogle was accepted to Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology before deciding to attend Purdue University to study civil/environmental engineering. Emily, the daughter of Jennifer and Rodney Ogle, hopes to add a minor in political science, and focus specifically on community development. The Advanced Placement (AP) Scholar completed 10 AP classes within Kokomo High School's College Preparatory Academy, including all 5 AP Science courses offered – one of only 5 KHS students to do so. The counselor at Notre Dame University's Joint Institute for Nuclear Astrophysics "art to science" camp completed an internship with the City of Kokomo Engineer, and is excited to intern with Delphi this summer to help jumpstart her career. The National Honor Society member and Speech & Debate Club Co-Captain thanked Physics teacher Tom Ferguson "for helping me discover how physics and engineering can be used in all aspects of life." The Girls' League Mentor Coordinator was a product of the KEY High Ability program at Sycamore Elementary and Central Middle School, and thanked her KEY classmates for "always pushing me to do better through positive peer pressure."
