Yutong “Caroline” Guo

Kokomo High School Class of 2019 graduate Yutong “Caroline” Guo, an International student from China, was accepted to Fordham University and Penn State University before deciding to attend George Washington University in Washington D.C. Caroline, the host daughter of Julie and Steve Cusick, plans to earn a degree in International Affairs, with a minor in International Economics. At Kokomo High School the 2018 Advanced Placement Scholar completed six AP courses, which “have helped me learn what university classes will be like, while also helping me decide what to study in college.” The KHS International Council member and Bridges Outreach tutor wishes to thank Kokomo Schools for helping “me gain a new family. I have enjoyed living in the dorms with ‘sisters’ from all over the world. I love that my host parents have supported me during one of the most important times in my life.” The KHS Talent Show award winner added her gratitude and praise to Kokomo High School for the AP and IB classes which “allowed me to devote time to fields that interest me, and for the many after-school activities at KHS that made school life more colorful.”
